

```
1  /*
2  PROGRAM: FunctionFun
3  AUTHOR: Caleb Reister
4  DATE: 2013-11-11
5  DEV ENV: Visual Studio 2012 Pro
6  DESCRIPTION: Identical to LoopFun but is function-based
7  */
8
9  #include <iostream>
10 #include <iomanip>
11
12 using namespace std;
13
14 int GetInt(int low, int high);
15 void RangeMean(int low, int high);
16 void box(int height, int width);
17 void triangle(int height);
18
19 int main()
20 {
21     int height;
22     int width;
23
24     cout << "Enter a box height (between 3 and 10): ";
25     height = GetInt(3, 10);
26     cout << "Enter a box width (between " << height << " and 20): ";
27     width = GetInt(height, 20);
28
29     cout << endl << endl
30          << "Intermediate values between " << height << " and " << width << ":" << endl;
31     RangeMean(height, width);
32     cout << endl << endl << endl;
33
34     box(width, height);
35     cout << endl << endl;
36     triangle(height);
37
38     cin.get();
39     cin.ignore();
40 }
41
42 int GetInt(int low, int high)
43 {
44     /*
45     FUNCTION: GetInt
46     DESCRIPTION: uses cin to get an integer within a range
47
48     ARGUMENT LIST:
49         - low: the starting value of the range
50         - high: the final value of the range
51
52     RETURN VALUES:
53         - input if the number is in range, loops until a valid value is entered otherwise
54     */
55     int input;
```

```
56     cin >> input;
57     while (input < low || input > high)
58     {
59         if (input < low)
60             cout << "The number you entered is too low, try again: ";
61         else if (input > high)
62             cout << "The number you entered is too high, try again: ";
63         cin >> input;
64     }
65     return input;
66 }
67
68 void RangeMean(int low, int high)//show intermediate values between high and low, calculate average
69 {
70     /*
71     FUNCTION: RangeMean
72     DESCRIPTION: prints the intermediate values and average of the arguments
73
74     ARGUMENT LIST:
75         - low: start of the range
76         - high: end of the range
77
78     RETURN VALUES: void
79     */
80     for (int IntMed = low; IntMed <= high; IntMed++)//IntMed is the intermediate value to be printed
81         cout << IntMed << " ";
82     cout << endl << "Average: " << (low + high) / 2;
83 }
84
85 void box(int width, int height)
86 {
87     /*
88     FUNCTION: box
89     DESCRIPTION: creates a box out of '*' with the set width and height
90     ARGUMENT LIST:
91         - width: the box width
92         - height: the box height
93
94     RETURN VALUES: void
95     */
96     int horizontal;
97     int vertical;
98     for (horizontal = 1; horizontal <= width; horizontal++)//1st horizontal line
99         cout << "*" << " ";
100     for (vertical = 2; vertical < height; vertical++)//vertical lines
101         cout << setw((width - 1) * 2) << endl//set width of print to 2 * number of '*' to account for ' '
102         //in horizontal lines, subtracted 1 to offset width so it doesn't create '*' past end of rectangle
103         << left << "" << right << "";
104     cout << endl;
105     for (horizontal = 1; horizontal <= width; horizontal++)//2nd horizontal line
106         cout << "*" << " ";
```

```
107 }
108
109 void triangle(int height)
110 {
111     /*
112     FUNCTION: triangle
113     DESCRIPTION: prints a triangle starting with "", adding "" each row
114     ARGUMENT LIST:
115         - height: the number of rows to print
116     RETURN VALUES: void
117     */
118     int vertical;
119     int horizontal = 4;
120     cout << "* *"; //triangle always starts with * *
121     for (vertical = 1; vertical < height; vertical++) //vertical position of curosr
122     {
123         cout << endl;
124         for (int start = 1; start <= horizontal; start++) //content for each line
125             //start defines starting point of * creation keeps adding "* " until 126             //horizontal is reached
127             cout << "* ";
128         horizontal += 2; // add to number of '*' to create after each line, +=2 was
129         //assigned
130     }
131 }
```